

The Trinity College Postdoctoral Society offers a collegiate environment, in which postdoctoral researchers from different disciplines can meet and conduct intellectual, cultural and social activities.

The Postdoctoral Society has its own Constitution, its own Executive Committee elected by its postdoctoral members, and its own regular Formal Hall. In addition to organizing events such as talks and seminars with invited speakers (for which the College Council has allocated a grant), the Society engages with the wider College community. Privileges of individual members include the ability to purchase food and drink at the College bar and cafeteria and to hire a College punt at the Old Members' rate. For the range of privileges currently offered to members, please see the list at the end of this document. There is an annual administration fee, which for 2026 is £75.

This is an opportunity for those who wish to meet postdoctoral researchers outside their immediate research environment and to work together to enhance their social and intellectual experience at Cambridge in new and exciting ways. The Society is not intended to duplicate what the University already provides (e.g. career development, housing, sports centre, counselling, etc.), nor is it a scheme for those who are looking for college accommodation, or participation in College governance. Membership of the Society is by nomination by a Trinity Fellow, who can act as a familiar face for those new to Cambridge or the College. The Society may also advertise for new members from time to time.
